Gridders' Reorganization Proposal Calls For Athletic Advisory Board, Alumni Clubs, Non-Coach Director

Reorg Chairman Tours State To Collect All Ideas And Advice

A plan, suggesting that the presmajority of faculty members and three alumni be changed to an athletic advisory board consisting of the state governor. University president, alumnl president, four faculty members and two students, was presented to the Reorganiza-tion committee at its first meeting Tuesday in Dr. Frank L. McVey's office by football players Sherman Hinkebein and Dick Robinson who were assisted in outlining the new constitution by Lt. Col. B. E. Brew-James Shropshire, and Bernle

The proposition also called for a non-coaching athletic director who would be responsible only to the University president and who would organize an alumni chain that induced athletes to enter U. K. instead of enrolling at some other institution. This move was prompt ed by the lack of available and competent players who could have acted a substitutes frequently during the past gridiron season. The athletic director would be chosen by the University president and he would be head of the athletic department of the College of Arts and

Student Cooperation Necessary

CTIPIETS of the ank of junior can recall when, during the process of registration, they had to in line for hours and then risk life and limb b. tiling the moli that struggled to sign up for classes. Titti Kernut, anxious to alleviate this simarion, proposed a system which was later adopted by the University, bringing up new order to the registration routine. That system has been in force for three semesters.

In order to successfully maintain the method. the cooperation of the student body is requested. In another part of today's paper appears a complete registration schedule. Consult this table and ascertain the allotted time for students whose names begin with the initial of your last name. Following registration, visit vom dean's desk, and then list your classes. If the system is faithfully adhered to, it should take no student over an hour both to register and classify.

Because it desires to promote the efficiency of the method, and because it designed the plan now in use. The Kernet requests your cooperanion. Any attempts to register or classify at an massigned time will only be unsuccessful and will impede the progress of the task. Hence, Tui Kirnit asks that you follow the rules.

Exams And Grief

A min-vi ar examinations loom closer and closer, studenis frequently leaf back through their semester's work and find it wanting. They find iliai, in effect, they must compile the tasks of an emire term in the period of a few days. An almost impossible feat, it is seldom successful and always extremely difficult.

Since it is too late to look to the past, resolve to avoid the repetition of the same mistake in the future. Take the next semester in stride, keeping abreast of responsibilities, and at its close you can review with satisfaction the weeks gone by, and face the prospect of huals with assurance. Nothing promotes good feeling with oneself more than the knowledge of work well done.

Scrap Irony By HARRY WILLIAMS

With first examinations in the immediate offing, we feel it our duty to bring you a little advice on how to pass them.

This advice first appeared in "Poor Richard's Almanack," and there ought to be something apropos in the Constitution of the United States which, we would say, is still pretty good (in spire of what other people are muttering):

HOW TO MAKE A FINAL EXAM

- 1. Firet the room armed with a pencil, a set of encyclopedias and a slate for lighting.

SIDESHOW

CODAY the last classes of a waning semester will meet I in nervous sessions, worried by the cumbersome prospect of an ordeal to come. There is not time for retrospection, though this passage of a definite part of life would merit it. Since last September one-eighth of the average college course has rippled away, full of events and emotions that Martha Hume to the SAE house for are forever gone; lustrons with memories of happiness and liscouragement. The weeks and months have brushed by and already we find ourselves in what was once a remote future. Time is like that. IAN LINGLE MUNGO is always meat for a pre-slumber discussion. There is something about the Flatbush firebrand that provokes talk and speculation. For whom will he pitch this season? What will Brooklyn get for him? Could the Reds use him? Is his arm in shape? Let's see if we can answer some of the questions

That Mungo is respected, as a pitcher, in the National league is proved by the fact that the Giants. Cubs, Pirates, and Cardinals have been dickering with the Brooks all winter in effort to nab him. The Cards are merely interested and have yet to extend an offer. If the Giants want Van, Grimes fication, soils and crops, poultry expects in return Mel Ott and Hank Danning. Such a swap would leave the Gothams without a consistently long hitter and a catches destined to become famous. Besides Danning is a Jew and in New York such a character fattens the coffers. But across the river Ott and Danning would give the Flock a total of four professional? players, Manush and Hassett are already in the Brooklyn fold. Terry pooh-poohs such a demand and offers Hank Leiber and a pitcher. Brooklyn is wary about Leiber because the Arizona outfielder never has been the same since Bob Feller beaned him last April ln an exhibition game. Evidently, then, the Giants won't get Mungo.

Most active toward Van Lingle are the Chicago Cubs. Recently, they sent an envoy to Brooklyn gridiron, and that the basketball carrying an attractive proposition. Bruins offered Ripper Collins, Lonnie Frey, Clyde Shoun, Joe Marty and $75,000 for the petulent pitcher. The Cubber went home to the tune of A Thousand Times No. Brooklyn athletic council for 12 and was acwanted Frank Demaree and cash. Doubtless, Grimes could have fore his appointment to the athle turned Collins into an outfielder again and profited on his long range hits. But Frey gives Flatbush fans the headache, Shoun has a sevenseven mound record, and Joe Marty was a sensational flop all last year How strong is Collins' angle. May be that's why the Chis wanted to dump him off on someone. About the only luring part of the deal was Pittsburgh offered Brooklyn Paul Waner for Mungo in a straight Waner for Mungo in a straight who will speak on, "Proper Uses of cashless deal. Waner is 35 years old Different Credit Sources;" and M. and Mungo is 26. The Pirate star L. Collins, Maysville; John C. Nichhas been hitting over 309 for the ols, Lexington; and H. K. Gayle has been hitting over 309 for the ols, Lexington; and H. K. Gayle, last eleven years. He has led the Morganfield, who will lead a panel Nationaloop three times. But age discussion on banks and agricul might creep up and weaken his ture. willow. Mungo should be at the summit of his strength. Besides, Ebbets Field needs a home run hitter and Waner never specialized in batting the pill into the bleachers.

So it seems the eccentric speed-er will wear the Brooklyn toga this spring. The front office has mailed him a contract for $15,-000 but he'll probably hold out for back pay. He received the same amount last year but lost most of his coin in paying fines. Mungo has the habit of publicly making fun of his infielders, go-ing on private excursions, and hiding in the South Carolina mountains. One night last summer $1,324 was elipped from his salary for insubordination on the field, disorderly conduct, fist fighting with his second baseman, and breaking $24 worth of hotel furniture. You get the idea.

However, Flatbush should keep her only famous, pitcher. When Mungo is right no club can club him. All he needs are three runs and average support. There is no picture to imagine than Mungo in form on the mesa slamming the ball over the plate with invisible speed. When strike-outs are counted Mungo is always near the top. But like all fast ballers, he also stands high in the base on Exactly why other teams are trying to land him with fancy bait is a source of perplexity. His arm indicated weakness just before the All-star game. He should have been resting then but went down to the Capitol and faced the American barrage, After that whenever he pitched it seemed like he threw the first seven innnings with his arm and the last two with his heart. I can never forget one afternoon in Washington picking up a paper and reading a headline, "Mungo, Arm Dead, Sees End of Career."

It seems that the right process to follow, if these other clubs want him, is to watch Mungo pitch until May 15 when the trading deadline arrives. By then he will have pitched about five games and the world will know how he feels. Maybe he's through and doesn't know it and maybe his fin is right. Any way it's a hard problem to decide Oh yes, could the Reds use him. Cincinnati could use anybody who can play ball. Brooklyn wants players for Mungo, not money, And who, outside of Ival Goodman and Ernic Lombardl, could the Reds offer. The Boner Boneyard (Ebbets Field) has enough awkwardness behind the plate lu
